Red Cross Teams Ready To Enroll Blood Donors

Workers on the Red Cross blood recruitment teams and all others interested in the visit of the bloodmobile here Oct. 8, 9 and 10 are urged to reserve next Monday afternoon for the tea meeting to be held at the November clubhouse beginning at 3 o'clock.

Instructions and materials will be distributed at that time and a brief program of films will be shown.

Prospective donors will be enlisted during the week of Sept. 24 through Oct. 1 at which time the registration committee will begin the task of scheduling specific appointments and mailing out notice cards to donors.

Don't Rush Child Off To School

Don't rush your child off to school before he is old enough to absorb the learning.

Andover educators have issued a warning to local parents, who might labor under the false idea that children should get into the classrooms at the earliest age possible.

In Andover the rule is that "the child must be six by January 1 of the following year."

It has been proven that subjecting five-year-olds to first grade studies paves the way for later reading disabilities and emotional tensions, which only vigorous therapy and skillful guidance can uproot.

Andover educators believe that children should be old enough so that they will find learning to read a pleasant task. The consensus of opinion of noted educators on this subject is that a child has not attained the mental age necessary to learn reading until he is six years and six months.

The building, about 75 feet long, was used partly for storage and one section was used as a club house for boys. Box 336 was sounded at 9.02 p.m. and the relief at 10.15 p.m. Fire officials are investigating the cause.

Who Pays The Taxes

Present indications reveal that Uncle Sam will spend some seventy or eighty billions of dollars, next year, for national defense.

The false impression held by most average Americans is that the fellows with big incomes will foot most of this tax bill. The fact is that the government has been able to squeeze out of all the people having incomes of $100,000 or over little more than half a billion dollars. From all the people with incomes of $20,000 or more, the government last year got less than three billions. Even if it took 90 percent of all their income, it would collect less than four billions.

Let's face it. The average citizen will have to dig up the other seventy-odd billions.

The Russian danger is so great that all of us must, without hesitancy, make the necessary sacrifices. And yet, we should resent having our dollars wasted. It is our business to see that our officials in Washington spend our money with care. For the tax football will be ours to carry down the long field ahead.

The old saying "it is an ill wind that blows no one any good" must be true. Within the last week we were listening to the radio and heard the announcement of the 10% increase in the cost of newsprint. We immediately reached for the aspirin, which, of course, helped the aspirin business. It seems as though everything is bound to help someone.

Waldoboro (Me.) Press.

Baby's Sleeping Habits

Regardless of what the neighbors may think, babies do most of their sleeping at night. Their sleep at night lasts from eight to ten hours and the time between one and three a.m. is when they are most likely to be asleep. These are among the findings of a study of babies' sleep by scientists at the University of Chicago.

Even at the age of three weeks babies do most of their sleeping at night, it was found. At that age they sleep about eight and a half hours at night, and only six and a half hours during the day. The basic day-night sleep pattern already is beginning to be established. In the next few weeks of life, up to the fourteenth week, the total amount of sleep increases only slightly, if at all, but the babies increase their night sleep to a little over ten hours. The daytime sleep decreases proportionately.

At the end of six months, the babies cut down their daytime sleeping to about three and a half hours, which usually falls into two well defined naps during the day. Their total sleep over a twenty-four hour period is as little as fourteen hours.

Nationalism Might Break Soviet Hold On Satellites

Beware of snap judgements over the Prague shakeup, in which Stalin's "Man Friday" Rudolf Slansky, General Secretary of the Communist Party, had his wings clipped.

Until we know more, it is unwise to assume that Moscow's grip on Czechoslovakia has been loosened or that President Klement Gottwald is doing a Tito. He may be merely demoting a bureaucratic failure or brushing aside a rival politician.

Nevertheless, Red family rows are encouraging signs. Each indicates a crack in the Communist monolith and a weakening of Soviet power.

Several types of internal conflicts continue to flow through the Soviet bloc—rivalry of leaders, doctrinal disputes, Russophobia, resistance and even plots for revolt.

In addition to ever-resent differences of opinion on Communist ideology, the current division in the satellite camp is over Russian imperialism. Czechoslovakia, Poland, Hungary, Rumania and Bulgaria at first were Soviet Allies. Their puppet rulers now are trying to turn them into colonies of the Russian empire.

Even farsighted Communist nationalists today realize that the ultimate purpose of Moscow is to absorb their countries as slave republics of the U.S.S.R.

Opposition to the loss of national independence—through colonization and eventual absorption—is the basis of the latest discussions in the belt from the Baltic to the Black Sea.

Loyalty To Soviet Fading

Antipathy for Russia crops up in different ways. Anti-Stalinist Red officials in Poland mischievously circulated the order that documents for Moscow must be signed with different colored pencils. All paper works ceased in the sprawling bureaucracy as such pencils were out of stock—until it was finally discovered that the order was a fake.

Even in the Soviet Union is deep-seated dislike of the Muscovite. In 1926 the population of the U.S.S.R. was 147 million of whom 53 per cent were Russians. Between 1939-45 approximately 24 million non-Russians from captured states were absorbed. Today the percentage of non-Russians in the Soviet Union—not including Iron Curtain satellites—is 53.61.

Moscow, therefore, must win the loyalty or keep in chains hostile peoples of the Ukraine, Byelorussia, White Ruthenia, Lithuania, Estonia, Latvia, Armenia, Georgia, Azerbaijan, Turkestan and the Kazak regions with their varied bloods, religions, cultures, histories and geographical interests.

The case of Ukrainian aversion of Russia is typical. In early Bolshevik days Moscow determined to break the back of property-owning farmers. First it deported more than a million and a half peasants. But resistance to collectivization continued. To stamp out this opposition, Stalin cold-bloodedly employed mass starvation in which four and a half million men, women and children were left to die of hunger.

Ukrainians Reap Usual Stalin Reward

When Nazi troops first marched in, they were welcomed as liberators. In the first seven months of the war, nearly four million Red soldiers surrendered to Germany.

The overwhelming majority were Ukrainians and other non-Russians. But blind, stupid cruel Hitler persecuted these voluntary fugitives and the disillusioned Ukra-nians became partisans for Mother Russia.

To hold them to their renewed allegiance Stalin shrewdly placed them under the Ukrainian General Timoshenko. Poets were urged to write verse filled with national sentiment. A Red military decoration, named for a 17th century Ukrainian hero, was created. The Ukrainian Military March, based on ancient patriotic songs, was adopted.

After the war, Stalin distributed his rewards. The poets were silenced and their works purged. Ukrainian martial music was stopped. Hundreds of thousands of Ukrainians were deported to concentration camps or to Siberia. Others were slaughtered.

Today the captive republic seethes with hatred for Russia. Among the fiercest of guerilla bands are the Ukrainian partisans fighting in the forests and mountains of the Balkans and Central Europe.

Bitter resentment of Russia present everywhere from the Karelo-Finnish Republic to the Caucasus captive states. And with animosity flourishes a yearning for independence.

Underground agents and refugees repeatedly have told me that the smartest thing Washington could do to stimulate Soviet dissent would be to revive and publicize Woodrow Wilson's famous point self-determination for prisoner nations.

Diabolical Strategy in Shifting Populations

Moscow fears nationalism as the hope of independence. It is doing everything possible to crush the first in its satellites and second in its republics.

The agony of individual victims of mass deportations in Hungary has been described in this column and elsewhere recently. The shocking possibility is that Stalin's these terrible personal tragedies may succeed in strengthening the defensive system of Russia.

Ever since the first enormous migration of Baltic peoples in 1945, the shifting of populations has been carried out all over the Soviet Union.

As a military precaution, strategic frontiers have been depopulated. Recently a Bulgarian regiment was ferried across the Danube into Rumania and a corresponding Rumanian unit was moved into Bulgaria, because each feared its own people.

Forced labor battalions are changed among satellites. Non-Communists are uprooted and dumped in different parts of their homelands. This internal shuffling goes on the increase.

The long range high strategy of the great interstate mass deportations is more diabolical. Moscow is emptying its frontier republics of Europeans and scattering the deportees throughout Central Europe.

Soon a wedge of stupid Mongolians and politically-safe Asiatics will live and stand guard between Russia and Europe. As large numbers of satellite political prisoners also are being shipped to the Pacific, eventually even puppet states may be inhabited largely by strangers from another continent.

The significance of genocide is that ultimately Free Europe may have Asia along its frontier.

NEW LIGHTING AT LIBRARY

The Memorial Hall library is now a more "brilliant diamond in the square", to misquote a very pleasant editorial in the Townsman a year or so ago. The new lighting system, voted by the citizens in town meeting, is completely installed and drawing favorable comments from many library users. The adult reading room and the Young People's room are lighted with single pin instant start fluorescent lamps; the first floor alcoves and the stacks on the mezzanine have strip lighting units to make reading of titles on the shelves a simpler process. The main vestibule, stairway, trustee's room and auditorium are equipped with silver bowl, three ring units.

Much better use of the library has been made possible through this improvement in the lighting situation.

Information For Veterans

Q—I am a veteran and will live in France for the next couple of years. Where can I find out about VA-administered benefits, since there is no VA regional office in this country?

A—The Veterans Affairs Attache for Europe, in the American Embassy in Paris, can provide you with the answers to whatever questions you might have pertaining to veterans' benefits.

Q—I am a veteran of World War I, and would like to know if there is any limit for filing a claim for compensation for disability caused by my war service?

A—There is no time limit set for filing claim for compensation under existing legislation.

Q—Why is it that I can't get a reply to a letter I wrote the Veterans Administration several months ago?

A—In all probability, your letter is one of many that does not give sufficient information to identify you. In many instances, research must be made before the writer is identified, the claim acted on, and a reply sent out. It is estimated that about 20 percent of all letters received by VA do not give sufficient information for identification.

Q—May I change the beneficiary to my NSLI by a last will or testament?

A—No. A change of beneficiary must be made by written notice to the VA unless received and indorsed on the policy by VA. An original designation of beneficiary may be made by last will or testament.

A—No.

Q—May I take institutional on-farm training under the GI Bill on a part-time basis, such as one day a week?

Andover May Field Team In Little League Next Year

The Andover Little Leaguers at the playstead last Friday night lost their second ball game with the North Andover Little Leaguers by the score of 8 to 6.

This game closed a two weeks screening period for over 100 boys by Mgr. Charlie McCullom and Coaches Tom Low, Jim Bissett and Ed Lefebvre.

Boys who survived the squad cut and played in the series with North Andover were, R. Leete, N. Richardson, C. Bowman, W. McCullom, C. Dalton, F. Polgreen, C. Swenson, C. McKittrick, P. Carey, L. Williams, P. Colquhoun, E. Delaney, R. Costello, T. Emmons, H. Emsley, H. Lefebvre, W. Dalton and W. Simeone.

For the benefit of parents and interested townspeople Mgr. McCullom wishes to clear several points in so far as the possibility of a little league team in Andover is concerned.

First, there are enough boys to field a varsity squad and a farm team.

Second, facilities are excellent with the small diamond on the playstead probably being the site of all games. The football bleachers will furnish the necessary seating.

Third, to date the Andover Boosters club is ready to provide the funds necessary to field a team, as it fits in with its policy of giving the youth of Andover any and all assistance possible when needed and deserving.

Fourth, the coaching problem is in the capable hands of men who have worked with boys for many years in baseball.

However, there is one very big "if" to the future of such a program and that is, "If all parents whose sons are picked to play on the two squads are resigned to the fact that the boys must stay home all summer in order that they will be available for all games."

A program is about to be presented to the Lawrence Kiwanis club for a possible suburban league composed of teams from Salem, N.H., Methuen, North Andover and Andover. A report on this will be published after definite action is taken.

Mgr. McCullom wishes to thank the board of public works for its excellent cooperation in preparing the diamond on the playstead for the games, and also the Andover Recreation committee for the donation of new baseballs.

Phillips Opens Its 174th Year

Phillips academy opened its 174th academic year Monday with its usual capacity enrollment of 736 boys, including 688 boarders and 48 day students.

In line with its long-standing policy some 150 boys are attending on scholarships for which more than $135,000 of scholarships has been granted.

There are three exchange students from Europe. Sponsored by the American Field service are Jacques Contant of Brussels, Belgium and Nils Sejersted of Oslo, Norway, and by the English Speaking union is Colin Whittle of Cambridge, England.

New faculty members are Charles Alexander Campbell Jr., instructor in English; Robert Jay Cinq-Mars instructor in music and director of the band; Earl Orren Johnson Jr., instructor in Spanish; Walter F. W. Lohnes, who will teach German; Henry Waring Scherschewsky, who came here in midsummer as bursar of the school; and Philip Brownlie Weld, who will teach physics and elementary science.

An innovation at Phillips this year is an all-boys-work program in which every boy will devote some of his time to work on the buildings and grounds.

Punchard Wins Opener 7-2

Punchard opened its 1951 football season last Saturday with a 7-2 victory over Maynard at the latter's field.

A third period drive after recovering a Maynard fumble on the latter's 40 resulted in the Punchard touchdown when Al Wilson went over from the 4-yard line.

In the first quarter Maynard forced Punchard back almost to its own goal line where Ray Hathaway was forced to give Maynard two points on a safety.

It was a nip-and-tuck battle during most of the game with a green Punchard team rising to stellar defensive heights on various occasions to halt the home team's scoring threats.

The summary: Punchard—Gem-mell, lb; Ross, lb; Brown, lb; Bram-ley, c; Stewart, rg; Lavigne, rt; Lynch, re; Dolan, qb; Hathaway, lb; E. Finger, rfb; Sullivan, fb.
